DAVIS ANNOUNCES COMPANY-WIDE PROMOTIONS

Strategic Moves Reflect Higher Level of Growth + Strengthen Operations Depth

Rockville, MD (January 18, 2017) – Recognized by the Washington Business Journal as one of the area’s “Best Places to Work” for ten consecutive years, nationally and locally ranked construction leader James G. Davis Construction Corporation (DAVIS) announces 48 promotions, including new Construction Executives and Directors. Many veteran employees will take on new strategic roles, further strengthening the company’s operations depth.

With over 100 years of combined construction experience, Rick Ager, Dennis Lewis, and Mike Welch were each named Construction Executive. Responsible for multiple large-scale projects, Construction Executives provide direct, expert leadership to Field Management Staff and ensure successful completion of projects. Bill Moyer, Executive Vice President, said, “Our Construction Executives allow for corporate involvement from the field, which is a huge value to our project teams, but also benefits the client by allowing greater accessibility throughout the construction process.”

Four former Project Executives were named Directors: Greg Ghent, Joel Miller, David Purdy, and TJ Sterba. As market sector leaders, they are responsible for the strategic development of business plans and corporate initiatives. In addition to being actively involved throughout the entire construction process, from project procurement to completion, Directors streamline the engagement of corporate resources during all phases of a project.

“These promotions are a testament to the quality of people we have at DAVIS and they reflect a higher level of growth for the company. We continue to redefine the construction experience by offering the best experience, expertise, and technical ability in the industry,” said Moyer.
