Hensel Phelps Announces Stockholder Promotion

Tysons Corner, VA, September 1, 2020 - Hensel Phelps, a national general contracting firm with a regional presence since 1993, has announced a stockholder promotion designed to provide continued support and leadership for the company's growth in the Mid Atlantic Region.

Nathaniel (Nate) H. Jensen has been promoted to Operations Manager in the Mid Atlantic District Office in Tysons Corner, VA. In this role, Nate will oversee a variety of projects and provide our teams and clients the leadership and vision crucial to a project's success. Nate graduated from University of Wisconsin-Madison with a B.S. in Civil Engineering and began his career with Hensel Phelps in 2002 as a Field Engineer. He has since served in a variety of roles including Office Engineer, Area Superintendent, Design Manager and Project Manager. An 18-year veteran of Hensel Phelps, his portfolio of projects totals over $3.4 billion and includes the Pentagon Renovation Wedges 2-5, the National Air and Space Museum – Mary Baker Engen Restoration Hangar and numerous projects for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.
