Gilbane Building Company announces new Washington, D.C. Business Unit leader

Experienced industry veteran joins Gilbane Building Company

Washington, D.C. – October 2017 – Gilbane Building Company is pleased to welcome Emre Ozcan as vice president in our Washington, D.C./Arlington Office. In his role as Vice President, Emre will leverage his experience, relationships and successful track record to lead Gilbane’s growth in the D.C. metro area. Mr. Ozcan most recently served as Senior Vice President for a national builder and brings a client centric, collaborative and innovative approach to construction execution.

Mr. Ozcan brings experience in providing operational excellence, executing market repositioning and developing long-standing client relationships. With over 20 years in the industry, he has a proven track record of finding customized solutions to clients’ needs and building an engaging and collaborative workplace. Mr. Ozcan’s extensive experience in healthcare, corporate and institutional construction will enhance Gilbane’s ability to provide the highest quality service to our clients. Having worked with clients such as MD Anderson Cancer Center, Exxon Mobil, Bechtel, Baylor College of Medicine, Rice University and Texas A&M University; Emre has gained valuable insight into innovative strategies that can be leveraged across all of Gilbane’s key markets.

“Emre is an excellent addition to our Gilbane family in D.C.” said Paul J. Choquette III, Senior Vice President of Gilbane’s Mid-Atlantic Division and member of the fifth generation of the Gilbane family. “His in-depth understanding of the industry, experience in design-build and construction management at risk delivery, and diverse and broad client relationships will enhance the services we currently provide to our clients. Emre’s commitment to individual professional development will help employees build long lasting careers in construction at Gilbane, and support Gilbane's continued growth in the D.C. metro area."

Mr. Ozcan holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering from Northeastern University, a Master of Science in Construction Management from Northeastern University, and a Master of Business Administration from Boston College.
